You don't often get email from nisha.gopalan@investopedia.com. Learn why this is important

Hi my name is Nisha Gopalan and I'm a London-based editor at Investopedia. Can you confirm that the US has lifted recent export license requirements for chip design software sales in China? Also that the US Commerce Department has informed Synopsys Inc., Cadence Design Systems Inc. and Germany's Siemens AG that requirements to seek government licenses for business in China are no longer in place. Are there any others affected?

Thank you,
Nisha

Susan- it might be helpful to send Tim an email with the status updates so we can ping Julia or Kurland to ask OUS in our staff meetings. I know they are in the tracker but could be useful for a weekly summary of where things stand in a quick bulleted form:

AO 5 with Julia

4 AOs with company names 1,2,3,4 with OUS since X date.

Hi Arielle - adding the link (currently unpublished) into the press release in preparation for your posting is fine. Here's the dead/unpublished link:

Thanks, everyone. We are also planning a press release today and will need to add the documents link within. Do you advise inserting the deadlink into the draft, so it's ready to go at ~4pm along with DOJ?

Received - Thanks Sandra. We'll t-it up to be posted at 4 with the dead link sent to Arielle as soon as it's ready. One confirmation - we're to post it only to the EFOIA portal per usual correct?

Subject: EFOIA - PLEASE POST AT 4:00PM TODAY

Hi all,

Please arrange for the attached order to be posted on EFOIA at 4:00 today. Also, please provide the eFOIA link to Arielle Goldberg as soon as you have it so she can coordinate posting the press release with OCPA at 4:00 today.
